

```

File Edit View H1
version: "3"
services:
  nextcloud:
    image: nextcloud:latest
    ports:
      - "8080:80"
    volumes:
      - nextcloud_data:/var/www/html
    restart: unless-stopped

  collabora:
    image: collabora/code:latest
    ports:
      - "9980:9980"
    environment:
      - domain=172.20.10.5
      - username=admin
      - password=adminpass
      - extra_params="--o:ssl.enable=false --o:ssl.termination=false"
    restart: unless-stopped
    cap_add:
      - MKNOD

volumes:
  nextcloud_data:

```

Figure 1 — docker-compose.yml defining the Nextcloud and Collabora services

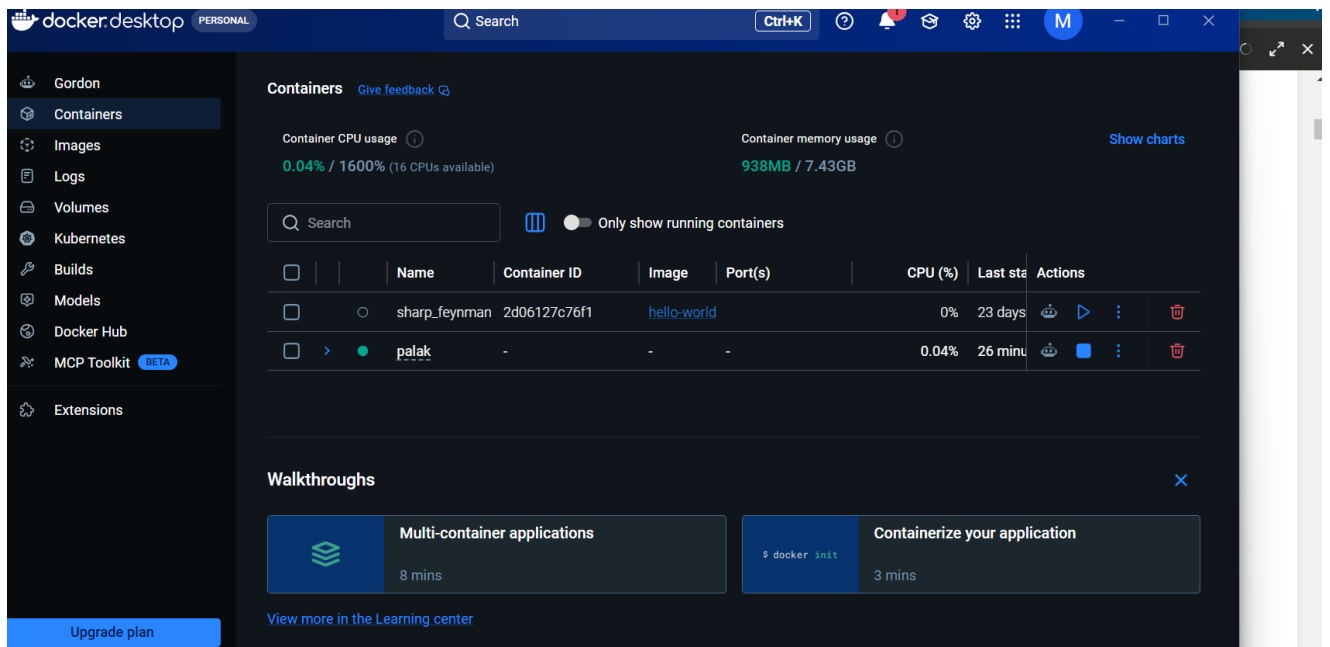

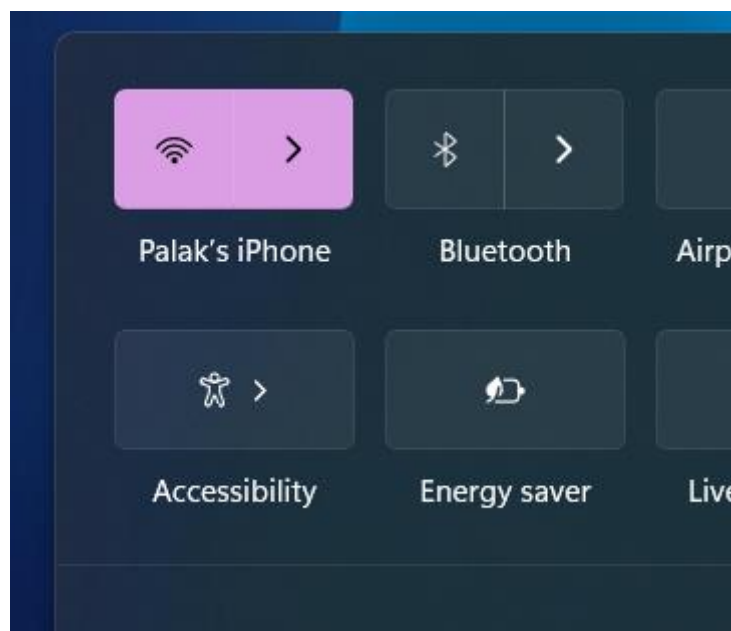

Figure 2 — Docker Desktop opened and running, with the "palak" container active under the Containers tab

```
Command Prompt
Microsoft Windows [Version 10.0.26200.8655]
(c) Microsoft Corporation. All rights reserved.

C:\Users\Palak>docker ps
CONTAINER ID   IMAGE                                COMMAND                  CREATED        STATUS        PORTS
bb3cf705c5e4   nextcloud:latest                    "/entrypoint.sh apac..." 12 days ago   Up 2 minutes   0.0.0.0:8080->80/tcp, [::]:
a398d34683b5   collabora/code:latest               "/start-collabora-on..." 12 days ago   Up 2 minutes   0.0.0.0:9980->9980/tcp, [::]:
C:\Users\Palak>
```

Figure 3 — Output of "docker ps" confirming both containers are running and healthy

• Figure 4 — Network panel confirming the active local Wi-Fi connection used to obtain the host IP address

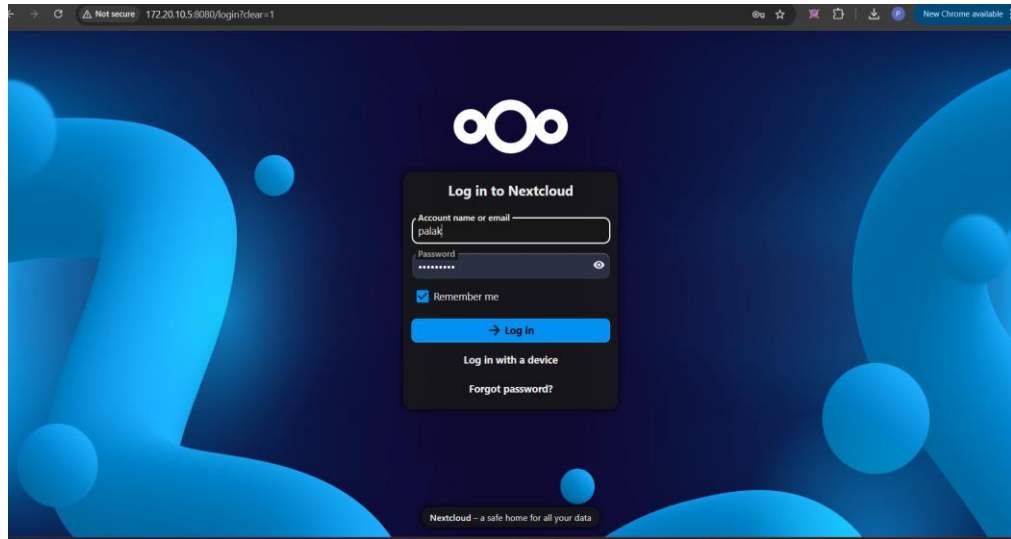

Figure 5 — Nextcloud login screen, the main entry point of the application, accessed at 172.20.10.5:8080

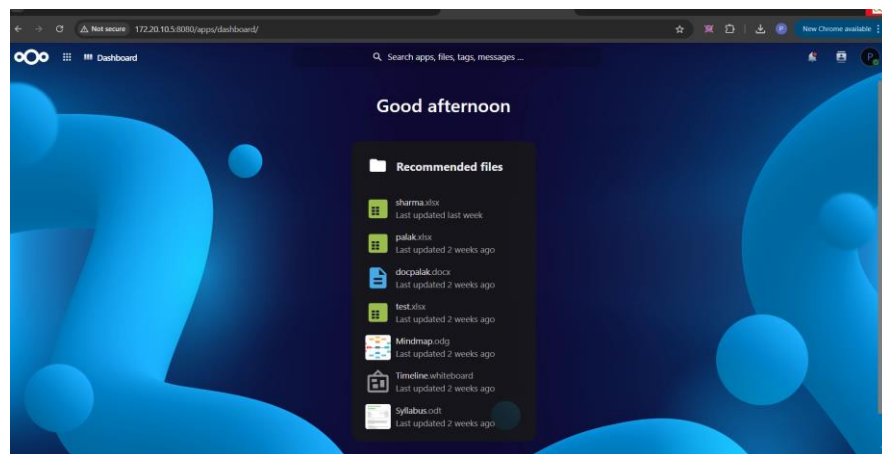

Figure 6 — Nextcloud dashboard accessed at the host's local IP address, showing recently used files

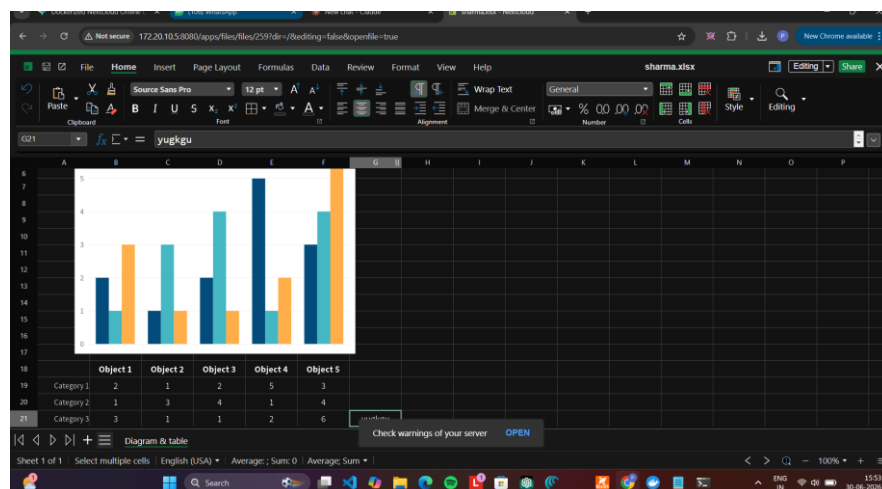

Figure 7 — sharma.xlsx opened for editing inside the Collabora Online spreadsheet editor

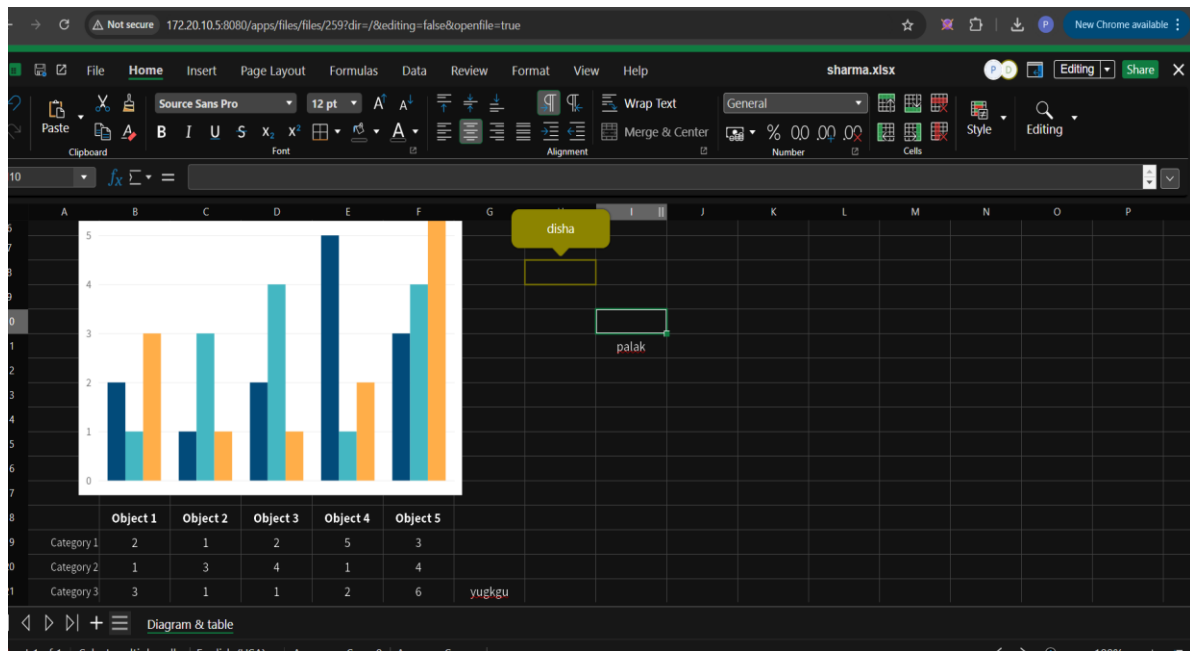

Figure 8 — Two users (disha and palak) editing the same spreadsheet concurrently, each with a distinct, colour-coded cell selection